appointed from that State to the Naval Academy in 1902. He is a member of the aviation class, which he joined December 10 last.

Lieutenant Towers established the American endurance record of more than four hours at Annapolis almost a year ago. He has always been regarded as a skillful and competent aviator, and has done much teaching for the Navy Department aviators.

An examination of Lieutenant Towers tonight disclosed that in addition to internal injuries, he had a rib broken and that his body from head to foot was a mass of bruises from his terrific impact with the water.

At midnight it was announced that the vessels sent to the scene of the accident to search for Ensign Billingsley's body, had been called in, and would return to their search at daylight.

Committee Trying to Dispose of $400,000 Worth of Jobs to 433 Representatives.

Washington, June 20.—It would not be surprising to many Congressmen on the "floor" if the Democratic caucus refused absolutely to slice up the patronage of the House of Representatives into so many portions of pie, just as a restaurant proprietor divides his pastry. That committee, from which no secret has leaked, is hard at work trying to find a solution to the question of how to divide $400,000 worth of jobs into 433 equal parts, one part to each representative, and it is little thought to see that this is well-nigh impossible.

However, there is some possibility that the head of the $350,000 jobs around the House of Representatives will be shifted, and that a new deal will be made in that department of House patronage.

The patronage committee is composed of Representative Humphries of Mississippi, Covington of Maryland, and Doremus of Michigan. Their task is to report some scheme whereby the $400,000 worth of jobs around the House of Representatives can be divided into 433 equal parts, one part to each representative, and it is little thought to see that this is well-nigh impossible.

It is not surprising, therefore, that there is a sentiment growing in the House to adopt some scheme whereby the valued and expert employees may be retained regardless of the stress and storms of politics and administration changes.

If the committee should report that it favored turning everybody out and making a new deal, the House of Representatives would stop short. There would be little or nothing done for a time. The whole machinery would be made useless if some of the big committee clerks and some of the men who carry the lore and law of the House of Representatives were cast out.

The new members who cry so loudly for pie at present could not find a bill or an act or a report for some time to come if the expert employees who handle those things so unerringly in the present were dropped from the rolls. There are, of course, men in positions which require little or no experience, and there is every chance that some of these men will be asked to retire.

Older representatives admit they know full well that if the clerks to such committees as the Appropriations, the Naval Affairs, Rivers and Harbors, etc., were changed, the committees would founder about like toddlers. But they know also that if the document room should be disbanded that no human being alive could master its intricacies in less than five years.

They know that if the library attached to the House of Representatives should be handed to a new set of employees that no member would be able to say with any certainty of getting it.

"Bring me that volume of the record which shows what Speaker Cannon had to say about appropriations for the Kibosh Indians in 1898." At present the volume would come back past haste with a marker showing its exact spot.

Cry for Spills Not So Loud.

There is a reaction from the cry for spills which marked the beginning of the extra session, and it all comes about through the thought of the inefficiency of many of the House employees. If there should be a spillage of this rule, it might mean working against him at home when he returned to run in the primaries.

For these reasons it is felt in the House that the report of the patronage committee will not be so drastic as was expected when the committee was formed.

WILSON WILL SIGN SUNDY CIVIL BILL

Doesn't Think It Right to Tie Up Appropriations Because of One Provision.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Washington, June 20.—It was learned following the cabinet meeting today that President Wilson will sign the sundry civil appropriation bill, which contains a provision that a grant of $100,000 to assist in enforcing the Sherman antitrust law shall not be used in prosecution of labor unions and farmers' alliances. President Taft vetoed the bill in the closing days of his administration because it carried this same provision, which the former President declared was class legislation.

With his approval of the measure, President Wilson will make public a memorandum stating that he does not see his way clear to hold up the entire bill, carrying appropriations of $18,000,000, because of this single provision, the propriety of which he will declare is, at best, debatable. He will point out, moreover, that inasmuch as there are other appropriations available for the prosecution of labor unions and farmers' alliances, if they are deemed necessary, a veto of the entire measure, under the circumstances, would not be justifiable.

The court holds that while the decision was correct inasmuch as it does not allow the girl damages for injury to her fair hair, the grounds that the relations between her and Caruso were reprehensible, yet the court thinks the girl is entitled to recover the money she spent in fighting to come Mrs. Caruso. The trial will take place as soon as the tenor returns to Italy. The whole case is a suitable amount to award the girl.

Steel mills continue active, though business is small, while lighter goods are in line in prices. The paper market is long on inquiries, but short on actual orders, and prices continue to recede. Machinery markets are quiet, though some of the principal centers report continued demand, and mine and mill supplies are in good request. Trade in anthracite coal is good, and the market for bituminous coal, production being restricted. Business for the week ending June 19 was 325, while compares with 239 last week.

TOWN CONTROLS SALOON

License Granted by Popular Vote.

Sisseton, S. D., June 20.—Commencing July 1, Sisseton will have the nearest thing to a saloon, at least in any town in South Dakota. The licenses for two saloons, to which the town of Sisseton was granted by W. E. Bollenebeck by popular vote.

Bollenebeck will conduct the business on unique lines. He will work on a salary of $1,800 a year, and the profits of the business will be divided as follows: 30 per cent to the county, 30 per cent to the city treasury.

The daily receipts of the saloon will be turned over to two leading citizens under whose control the business will be conducted. The name of the city will appear in any of the transactions of the saloon.

CAUGHT UNDER CAR,
INSTANTLY KILLED

Crawford A. Williams, of Charlotte, Meets Death in Auto Accident.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Charlotte, N. C., June 20.—The reverse curve on the river road six miles west of this city, where the road bends on a fifteen-foot embankment to cross the railroad, overturned another car this afternoon, when Crawford A. Williams, manager of the local Pepsi-Cola company, was caught under his machine, his skull fractured, and he was killed, while a small negro boy who was with him in the car escaped unscathed. Just a few nights ago a car containing four negroes ran off the same embankment, struck a telephone pole, and cut it in two, and none of the occupants was hurt.

The estimated speed of the car was twenty-five miles an hour, and it is thought that Mr. Williams had misgauged this, as the curve is well known for its danger. It was stated by some of the dead man's friends that the steering gear of the car, a thirty-horse power Buick, had probably stuck.

Fellow-employees refused to believe that he was speeding, for he was considered a careful driver. His age was about forty years, and he leaves a wife and four small children.

The Sonora State government is reported to have issued an order that the rebels shall collect and keep for war purposes all rents accruing from property within the state. This order also affects property owned by foreigners.

Does Not Believe Charges.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Washington, June 20.—The War Department is not inclined to take seriously charges against the conduct of United States soldiers on the Texas border unofficially brought against them by J. J. Kilpatrick, of Candalaria, Texas.

Secretary Garrison stated today that papers in his possession show the troops had acted against Mr. Kilpatrick in at least one instance at the direction of the customs service. A machine gun belonging to him was confiscated because it was thought to be in violation of the neutrality laws.

STOCKHOLDERS TO MEET ON MONDAY

End of Long-Drawn-Out Railroad Tax Controversy Is Now in Sight.

An adjourned meeting of the stockholders of the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad Company is called for Monday at noon, to ratify an action of the board of directors agreeing to surrender the old charter of the railroad, and to accept a new charter placing it on a par with other railway lines in the State in the matter of taxation. The meeting of stockholders was called for February 5, and has been adjourned from time to time since. The State and the railroad company have been at odds for some years in regard to the matter of taxation, the road claiming exemption under its charter, a claim which the State in recent years has not admitted. The last session of the General Assembly appointed a commission to negotiate with the officials of the road with a view to a compromise of the claim for back taxes, and to bring the matter to a clear cut basis for the future.

The State commission and the railroad, after months of negotiation, reached an agreement by which the railroad is to pay the State approximately $500,000, a portion of which is to be divided between the towns and cities through which the line operates. The city of Richmond receiving a considerable amount, C. D. Langhorne, a minority stockholder, with the consent of all parties, tested the legality of the compromise, claiming that the road was exempt from taxation, and that any payment to the State was an improper diversion of its funds. Judge R. Carter Scott, in the City Circuit Court, decided against Mr. Langhorne, and his decision has recently been upheld by the Supreme Court of Appeals, who held valid the act of the last Legislature naming the commission, and authorizing it to negotiate for a compromise of back claims.

As the test case was made by agreement, it is now believed that the action of the directors will meet with entire approval on the part of the stockholders, and that a long drawn-out controversy will soon be ended, and the amount agreed upon in the compromise settlement will shortly be paid over to the State, the road to accept an assessment hereafter on the same basis, and conditions as taxes are assessed by the State Corporation Commission against other railroads operating in this State.
